

ARREST SUSPECT IN LIMA MURDERS

G. O. P. WILL ORGANIZE SENATE

EXPECT INSURGENT ATTACK UPON MOSES MAY SHIFT CONTROL

Choice Of President Pro —Tem May Prove Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Assured of a "paper majority," the Republicans proceeded today with plans for organizing the new senate despite threats that an insurgent attack on the candidacy of Senator George H. Moses for president pro-tem, would result in giving the Democrats control.

The insurgent revolt against Moses for his characterization of them as "sons of the wild jackass" meanwhile was reported spreading to regular Republican ranks. One eastern conservative was said to have announced his intention of opposing Moses for the senate's highest honor even to the extent of voting for a Democrat.

Six insurgents were listed as opponents of Moses. They were Norris, of Nebraska, Couzens of Michigan, LaFollette and Blaine of Wisconsin, Nye and Frazier of North Dakota. A few other insurgents were listed as "noncommittal" on the issue.

With the insurgents declaring they would not support a Democrat for the post but would vote for another acceptable Republican, it appeared the balloting over a president pro-tem next week might last indefinitely. Rumors were prevalent that if the fighting lasted for some time, Moses would withdraw in the interest of party harmony. His friends though declared he would "stick to the finish," since he will continue to occupy the post, due to his election at the last session of congress, until his successor is appointed.

The danger to Republican control of the senate rested in Moses' threat to retaliate against the insurgents if they kept him from the presidency pro-tem. In a magazine article, he said sometime ago he would vote to oust the insurgents from their committee chairmanships if he lost the presidency pro-tem.

If punished in this way, the insurgents could be expected to continue the upset and turn over to the Democrats all those chairmanships now held by regular Republicans. This was the threat, but most senators regarded Moses' threat as an empty one and that the clash would end with the presidency pro-tem.

LABOR FEDERATION TO APPEAR BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Unions Favor Federal Move To Stabilize Industry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The American Federation of Labor through William Green, its president, was scheduled to appear before the LaFollette committee this afternoon and present the organization's position on governmental economic planning.

Other labor leaders who have testified before the committee, executives of two of the largest unions in the country, strongly endorsed a federal agency empowered to enforce industrial stabilization.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Garment Workers, told the committee that unless the government interfered and brought order out of the present chaotic business situation there would be recurring depressions with widespread unemployment.

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, declared that industrial stabilization was the only solution for the unemployment problem and advocated the federal government assume control of such economic coordination.

Neither of these great labor organizations is associated with the A. F. of L., and the committee is seeking to obtain its view on this question. Tomorrow, the committee will hear John L. Lewis, president, United Mine Workers of America, the largest union affiliated with the A. F. of L.

So far the testimony of labor representatives before the committee is in direct opposition to that of industrialists and bankers.

PIANO MOVERS TO BEAR PAIL

Block And Tackle Will Lower Casket Of Charles Bush, Who Weighed 640 Pounds

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—A crew of six piano movers was summoned today to assist in the burial of Charles Bush, one of the world's heaviest men. Bush normally weighed about 640 pounds. He died at the age of 49 from degeneration of the heart.

A rigging of block and tackle will be set up when the six specially engaged employees of a piano moving concern undertake to lower the casket, containing Bush's body, from his third floor apartment.

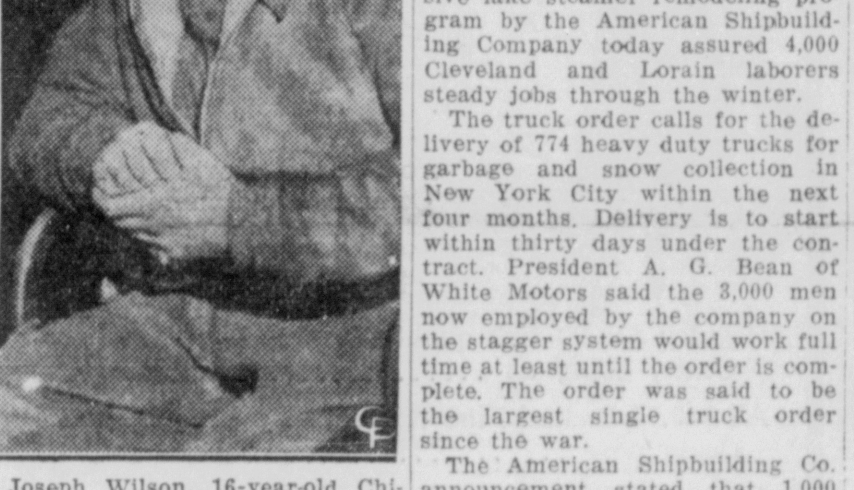

The coffin is twice the standard size. It is seven feet long and four feet wide and weighs 408 pounds. Because of the casket's immensity and weight, the undertaking company, decided to have it lowered to the street by means of the block and tackle through a large double window. The sashes of the window and part of the brick wall surrounding it have been removed.

The pallbearers will carry the casket to the hearse after it is lowered from the third-floor apartment. At St. Casimir's Cemetery where the burial is to take place, a special rigging of block and tackle has been set up.

When the casket was delivered to Bush's apartment, it was necessary to remove doors in order to get it upstairs.

In a fat-man's contest at Hollywood, Cal., recently Bush took second prize. Later the first prize winner died and Bush claimed the title of world's fattest man.

COOPER ASKS TAXATION REFORM AND CRITICISES DEMOCRATS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—A call for taxation reform and a criticism of Democrats for "evasion" of the taxation question, broadcast by former Governor Myers Y. Cooper during a visit to Washington, today strengthened Ohio's belief that Cooper is about to attempt a political comeback on a taxation platform.

Cooper's long statement did not say he will be a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but to political observers here it appeared to be a preliminary statement of his platform.

"It goes without saying that I am giving most serious consideration to the urgent request of my friends throughout the state to again stand for the office of governor," he said, adding that "I may say that at no time in my political career have I received so much encouragement."

Miss Emma F. Lyon, executive secretary of Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, for the past two and one-half years, has resigned, effective December 31. Miss Lyon gave ill health as the reason for her withdrawal from the work and will leave Sunday for her parents' home in Ironton, O., where she will spend a year in complete rest.

Miss Lyon presented her resignation to the board of directors two weeks ago but no action was taken until a meeting Wednesday afternoon. Regret was expressed at Miss Lyon's resignation and a committee composed of the Rev. W. H. Tilford, Mrs. C. R. Stearns and Mrs. L. S. Hyman, was appointed to draw up resolutions on Miss Lyon's service here.

Miss Lyon has been employed here since April 15, 1929. Before that she served as executive secretary of Red Cross chapters in Key West, Fla., Cambridge, O., and Ironton, O. She has been engaged in Red Cross work fifteen years.

Miss Katherine Smith, who has been employed in the Red Cross offices will be in charge of the office until a trained worker is sent here from national headquarters. A committee, to be known as the "home service committee," with the Rev. Mr. Tilford as chairman, will work in connection with Miss Smith.

A committee whose members are W. W. Galloway, chairman of the local chapter, Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Emma G. McCalmont, will confer with national headquarters at Washington, D. C., immediately in regard to selecting a successor to Miss Lyon.

Another committee composed of Rev. Harvey Crowell, the Rev. Lawrence Vessel and Mrs. M. J. Bebb, was appointed to draw up resolutions on the death of Miss Helen Evers, who served as Red Cross nurse eight years.

Fred G. Spaulding, Columbus, national field representative of the Red Cross, attended the meeting Wednesday afternoon.

WILL NOT REQUEST GRAND JURY RECALL

Prosecuting Attorney Marcus E. McCallister announced definitely Thursday that he has decided not to request of Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy that the October grand jury be recalled in recess session this month to investigate among other pending cases, the robbery last November 20 of the Charles Monnett home, south of Yellow Springs, which has resulted in the arrest of six suspects. Because of pressure of other matters, the prosecutor declares the Monnett robbery case must await consideration by the grand jury for the January court term.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

An hypocrite with his mouth destroyeth his neighbour: but through knowledge shall he be delivered.—Proverbs, xi, 9.

THE BOURBONS

Add to the calendar of events, a general meeting of the members of the various branches of the House of Bourbon, to be held in England early in January. The call has been issued by John IV, Duke of Guise and Pretender to the French throne; and though the Duke does not say so, it is rumored that the gathering will be a Council of Despair and a Lodge of Sorrow combined. For since the dethronement of Alfonso XIII of Spain, the historic family is no longer represented anywhere in the person of a reigning sovereign; and worse still, the prospect that it will be so represented again in the near future looks quite small. The twilight of the power and prestige of the family founded in the Ninth Century by Baron Adhemar of Bourbon l'Ancien-haut has crept on, until now it envelops all those who bear the ancient name.

The recession is by no means a small one. Many men and women of distinction were included among the Bourbons, even during the long period in which they were groping their way toward royal rank. Among them were dukes and constables of France and ancestors of the families of Conde, Conti and Montpensier. The Bourbons intermarried persistently with the scions of emperors, kings and princes, and finally provided a reigning monarch of a first class power in the person of no less a statesman than Henry of Navarre, otherwise Henry IV of France.

In France, the Bourbons persisted thereafter as the reigning house until the Revolution and beyond, for two members of the family were beneficiaries of "restorations." In the meantime, and in due course, they made their way to Spain, where Philip of Anjou, grandson of Louis XIV, became Philip V in the year 1700, founding the dynasty which, on and off, ruled in Madrid until the late upheaval took place.

But having started peregrinations the family did not stop with invasion of the Iberian peninsula. Charles III of Spain extended its tentacles by becoming King of Naples, afterward resigning in favor of his son Ferdinand, who was deposed by Napoleon; regained his throne, and subsequently assumed the title of King of the Two Sicilies. And while these things were going on, representatives of the family were Dukes of Lucca and Parma and one of them was ruler of the fugitive Kingdom of Etruria.

All this is now at an end. Little remains for the Bourbons but an assortment of empty titles, pride of race and relationship, and some wealth. The Kingship and Power and Prestige of the House of Bourbon are dead.

PEACE SOCIETIES

A mass meeting called in Paris last week by peace societies of 30 nations and attended by 8,000 persons was broken up by French Nationalists. Speakers, among them Viscount Cecil of England and Alanon B. Houghton of the United States, were hooted down by organized demonstrators against disarmament. The dove of peace was routed by fist fights and sabotage that lasted through two and a half hours of pandemonium.

The French Nationalists, who cite Adolf Hitler's political pyrotechnics on the other side of the Rhine as reason for France's refusing to reduce her armaments by a single regiment, ship or plane, are just as chauvinistic as the German firebrand and even more dangerous to the cause of progressive disarmament. Germany already is disarmed. The clamor of Adolf Hitler for another season of "blood and iron" must be nearly discounted because of that fact. The possession of the strongest army in Europe and a navy second in European waters only to Great Britain's places France in an entirely different category and gives point to the spearhead upon which her Nationalists are seeking to impose the forthcoming conference in Geneva. While the Nationalists are not all of France, they are well organized, aggressive in the pursuit of "security" before disarmament and, as Friday's demonstration showed, capable of winning the ear of the populace.

As long as a dominant element in France calls the German kettle black and itself demonstrates that its own approach to the question of disarmament is far from being white, a situation inimical to the hope of soon lifting the burden of excessive armaments from Europe's shoulders will continue along the Rhine. The Nationalist demonstration against last week's disarmament meeting in Paris does not mean that even in France the cause of sanity in international relationships is lost; but it does remind other countries that the way to peace through the reduction of armies and navies is still cluttered with obstacles founded in fear or greed.

Of-Spoken Threats Harmful

By DR. SMILEY BLANTON
Professor of Child Study, Institute of Eugenics, Vassar College.

The oft-spoken threats of mothers to sons and daughters that they will not love them any longer if the children commit naughty acts are as harmful disciplinary measures as old-time whippings.

Most parents try to force their children into rigid social patterns far too early. The result is that the child becomes negative, refusing to obey the simplest and most necessary commands.

We do not believe that children should be given corporal punishment. It is a savage and sadistic custom brought down from the early days when people were able to express their cruelty impulses under the cloak of discipline. On the other hand, it is equally bad to try to get the child to carry out certain lines of conduct by threatening him with the loss of love or appealing to his love. "Mother won't love you if you do that." Such expressions should never be used.

On the other hand, to say "This breaks mother's heart when you do that," and similar phrases, puts a terrible strain on the child's emotional life and gives rise to very unhappy results. What we would urge, then, is that the child should feel a sense of security that the love of the parents will not be taken away from him, but that if he does certain things they will not meet with approval.

LOVE STORY

She would believe in fair frail things.
In wedding cake and angel wings
And she stayed late each year because

Except his lie—and she kept that.

Looks just as dangerous without it." "I'll bet he doesn't suggest a title for a movie version: 'Toupee-men Deferred.'"

Sir Hubert Wilkins, whose former home was destroyed by the wreckers for Radio City, has moved across the street, of which he had become fond, despite proximity to the noisiest steam shovel in the world.

Gilbert Miller, producer of "The Good Fairy," was anxious for Helen Hayes to play the part of Lu, but was full of fear lest she find the play not to her liking—Miss Hayes being fussy sometimes. But without Miller's knowledge she was shown a purely tentative literal translation from the German, which in turn had been translated literally from the Hungarian. Any translator will tell you what that was likely to be like, but she read and approved it at once.

BUDGET OR BUST

COMING DOWN OFF HIS HIGH HORSE?

New South Dakota Solon Weighs Economic Trend With Primitive Clarity

CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—W. J. Bulow perhaps will be recalled as the Democratic governor of South Dakota who was in office the year when President Coolidge passed his summer vacation in the Black Hills and gave out his historic "do not choose" message to the country.

The same W. J. Bulow is now South Dakota's new Democratic senator—a Democratic senator from South Dakota being quite a political curiosity.

Senator Bulow frankly is a tenderfoot in the midst of national affairs and discusses them tentatively. Nevertheless, there is a suggestion about him of plenty of natural aplomb. As a personality, he does not give the impression that Washington's proportions will overawe him.

By repute the senator has one immensely valuable asset for public life—a highly developed sense of humor. Reports from the northwest refer to his speeches as funnier than the best professional entertainers.

In conversation he makes no obvious effort to scintillate, however. But he does outline economic difficulties, as he sees them, with a primitive clarity that has the ring of genuine originality, in comparison with all the complicated theorizing of which one hears so much in the capital's official circles—executive as well as legislative.

"Out in the agricultural area," complains the South Dakotan, chewing tobacco vigorously, "we have a surplus of crops and livestock, but a shortage of shoes, clothing and all sorts of factory products."

"Here in the industrial east farm products evidently are scarce, but factory production seems to have been overdone."

"We in the west would like to trade our surplus for the east's surplus, and no doubt the eastern folk would like to trade their surplus for ours."

"Well, why don't we do it?"

"We can't, somehow; nobody appears to know just why not."

"Without entering into any question of foreign markets," said the newly-arrived western lawmaker, "at least we ought to be able, right here at home, to exchange what we don't want for what we do want."

"Is the cost of transportation perhaps prohibitive?"

"It's a large item," agreed the senator, "and yet the railroads howl that they can't make ends meet. I suppose that means," he added, "that they can't pay dividends on a tremendous amount of money that figures in their bookkeeping, but never actually went into their properties."

"It's true," he conceded, "that motor transport is cutting heavily into the railroads' business."

"And why wouldn't it?"

"It not only is cheaper but more convenient for the truck comes right onto the farm, which eliminates the link between the land and the rails, and saves rehandling."

"But now," continued the senator, "the roads are trying to get regulations adopted to bring the cost of motor shipments up to their level."

"With the progress of inland waterways development, they likewise are taking steps to make the movement of freight by water as expensive as by rail."

"The whole idea," observed the South Dakotan solon, "seems to be that the railroads must be preserved, no matter at whose cost."

"Now, my thought is that transportation should be competitive."

"The auto truck clearly effects economies in certain classes of shipments. Otherwise the railroads would not be so disturbed over the matter. Improved waterways may fairly be expected to effect still greater economies; that's their purpose."

"Are these benefits to be offset because rail transportation is getting out of date?"

"In my judgment, as the roads become economically obsolete they ought to be scrapped. There surely is no good reason why auto truck and water freight charges should be artificially held above their natural level to enable any railroad to keep on running after it has outlived its usefulness."

To summarize, Senator Bulow suspects that the effort to bolster up old-fashioned institutions—and investments—in disregard of modern conditions has much to do with difficulty of farmers and manufacturers in trading off their respective surpluses with one another, badly as they both desire to exchange them.

"As times change," Senator Bulow remarks, "we should adapt ourselves."

The senator, by the way, occasionally is mentioned as a Democratic vice presidential possibility.

It's natural that he should be, being so decidedly of the agricultural type and having demonstrated his ability as a great vote-getter by winning, both gubernatorially and senatorially, in a normally strongly Republican state.

Menu Hint
Creamed Eggs and Celery on Toast
Buttered Pear and Carrots
Apple-Cabbage Salad
Apricot Whip Cake
Milk
This is a luncheon menu suitable for school children.

Today's Recipes
Creamed Eggs and Celery on Toast.—One and one-half cups milk, three tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup diced celery, four hard-cooked eggs, four slices toast. Melt butter, add flour and milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Season and add celery. Quarter eggs, place on toast points, and pour celery mixture over. Garnish with parsley and serve. Serves four.

Apricot Whip.—One-half pound dried apricots, three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon lemon juice, two egg whites, pinch of salt. Soak or stew apricots until tender. Put through sieve. Add pulp and other ingredients to egg whites and beat all until mixture holds its shape. Spread on cake and serve.

Apricot Whip Cake.—Three eggs, separated; three-fourths cup sugar, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half teaspoon lemon extract, one cup pastry flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat the egg yolks until thick. Add the sugar gradually, combining thoroughly. Add the water and the lemon extract. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and blend with the liquid ingredients. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake in a shallow layer pan in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20 minutes. When cool spread thickly with apricot whip.

Observation has revealed that most sun-spots are brief in their duration. In a count made by photographic assistance, one-fourth of the spots lasted but a day; about twice as many lasted from two to four days. The smallest spots are the shortest lived. Greenwich observations carried on an investigation of sunspots for a third of a century during which time 6,000 spots were observed. About one-tenth of these lived into the second rotation of the sun; about one in fifty lasted to the third rotation. There is one remarkable instance recorded that in 1840-'41 a sun-spot lasted for 18 months. Accompanying faculae (elevated photosphere) last much longer.

Fifty Years From Now
When I'm an Old Man
Will I Say This?

When I get to be an old, old man—with a gray beard like Santa Claus—and perhaps a "rumbling" thumping round belly like his, too—when I'm so old that I have only a few friends from my youth remaining and I dream wistfully of the quaint old days of 1919—when I'm just an old soldier cogitating and reminiscing about the war—and when I'm so old that I've acquired privileges just by virtue of being old—and I've gained the reputation of being wise just because I've managed to cling so long, like a last leaf, to my wintry bough—

and all that's left of me is a good laugh (I hope)—when I'm that old, as I say, if some young fellow with a few shreds of respect for my gray beard should ask of me, "What's the best way to be happy, Grandfather?"

Then this, I hope, is what I'll have sense enough to say:

"Well, son, let life do things to you. Let it roll you over like a great wave on the seashore. Dive through it and come up sputtering and laughing and shouting. Take it easy, but find it bracing. Have a good time, but don't hurt people while you're doing it. Keep your enjoyments within the boundaries of kindness and consideration. Don't say to yourself: 'Is this a sin?' Say, instead, 'Will this make anyone unhappy?'

"But don't struggle too hard for that good time. I've found that the best fun I ever got out of life was unpremeditated. Sometimes I walked along without any grim determination to be happy, but ready for whatever came—and things did happen. Fun came to me and I rolled like an exuberant puppy, when I least expected that sort of thing; and the best moments in my life have been the surprises. The moments when I tried too hard were the ones that left me nothing to tuck away forever in my memory."

"Don't even try to follow my advice. Just fix up a few don'ts—just a minimum supply—for yourself and stick to them pretty close. You'll have laugh wrinkles around your eyes and people'll like you and you won't need to be disgusted with yourself."

And maybe—if I say that sort of thing to some young fellow in 1981—he won't walk off and leave me talking to myself. And life will still be fun.

Rheumatism Treacherous

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Rheumatism has a fine villainous Italian hand. It is the most treacherous of all afflictions, because it causes death, not at the time it first affects the body, but years afterwards. The actual attack is seldom dangerous. But twenty or thirty years afterwards the victim begins to develop signs of heart disease, and it is found that the original attack of rheumatism affected the heart before it left the patient.

Rheumatism, indeed, does no permanent harm to the joints. "Rheumatism licks the joints," said a great physician. "It bites the heart."

It is also regional in its distribution. It reigns in the northern parts of the country, on the seaboard, around the Great Lakes and in Canada. The middle portion of the continent and the south are almost entirely free of it. There is no question that this is true, although I saw a review of my friend, Dr. LeRoy Crummer's book on heart disease in an eastern medical journal the other day, in which the reviewer opined that Dr. Crummer's statement that rheumatism was little known in the middle west was doubtful. A Canadian doctor, going through the medical wards of a hospital in my city a few years ago, turned with the puzzled query: "But where are your cases of rheumatism?" A few months later I understood his puzzlement when I visited his own hospital in Canada and found nearly every other bed filled with a patient with acute articular rheumatism.

It is well to ponder over those last three words. We are not speaking of all the many ailments which pass by the generic name of rheumatism—the only one perhaps to which the name should be applied—is acute. It is always accompanied by a fever. One joint after another swells up, is red and painful. In a few days the inflammation there subsides, so that a wrist may be inflamed on Monday, be entirely normal by Wednesday, but on Thursday the opposite ankle is affected.

Other names for it besides acute articular rheumatism, are rheumatic fever and inflammatory rheumatism.

The disease is particularly likely to attack children, and often with few or insignificant joint manifestations. Here the most severe damage is done to the heart.

In treatment we have two methods of major importance. The first of these is the use of one of the drugs called salicylates. They were originally isolated from oil of wintergreen but now most of those used are made synthetically. The most frequently exhibited is sodium salicylate. Aspirin belongs to this group. They work wonders with the disease in the acute stage. The other remedy, of even more importance, is prolonged rest during convalescence. The danger is, especially with children, that after the acute stage is over they will feel well and want to run about. But in order to prevent the serious heart complications of later years, there is nothing so important as enforced bed rest for six weeks to two months.

Hubby Is Not Good Provider

By MRS. MARY MORTON

"DEAR MISS LEE: I would like you to tell me whether I have done right by leaving my husband. I kept company with him a year and a half. He used to tell me lots of things about himself, how he would save money and would make a good home."

"We have been married two years and have a one-year-old baby boy. Three times I've gone to live with him in two or three rooms. I tried to struggle and make a home for the three of us, but what are you going to do when you are being clean, honest and trustworthy and the other half isn't?"

"I am 19, a good housekeeper and cook. I like to go to work and earn money to make a cozy home, but I guess I got the wrong man, because this husband of mine doesn't like to work. He only wants to be a good father to live on. I found this out too late. You never know a man until you are married to him. He was very clever in his talk and blames everything on his wife."

"He still claims he loves me more than anything in this world. Would a man be a liar and unfaithful if he loved with a clean love?"

"V. HONEYBOY."

It's sometimes sadly, sometimes beautifully, true that one never knows the person one marries until after the wedding bells have ceased pealing. In your case the awakening has been painful.

I think you are justified in leaving your husband if he is all that lies and is untrue. Maybe you are lucky to have learned early in your married life and have the power to earn money to take care of yourself and baby without his help.

Are you sure he would not have done better, however, if you had been content to stay at home and take care of the house and baby? I know it is miserable just trying to get by without saving anything or getting ahead. Sometimes one has to do it, however, for a time, at least.

If you are sure that you are not to blame for your trouble and that your husband is merely a corner loafer, maybe it would be better to stay apart, as you are able to take care of baby, but he should contribute to the support of the child.

A FRIEND M. D. P.: If you have any doubt as to the health of the man you are planning to marry,

How To Use Perfumery

By GLADYS GLAD

I overheard a discussion on perfume between two sweet young things the other day that rather surprised me. The one lass contended that perfume was supposed to be used on all occasions. The other insisted that it was poor taste to wear perfume at all times; that perfume, like a party gown, was intended for use only on special occasions. And it was the apparent "perfume" ignorance of the second damsel that was the cause of my surprise.

It always has been, and probably always will be, poor taste to use perfume too copiously. In a business office, especially, too lavish an application of perfume hints at lack of refinement. Indeed, some people become actually nauseated when they are forced to smell too strong or blatant a scent. But no wise woman today feels that her toilette is complete without its complementary odor. As the charming little Bessie Love puts it, a correctly used bit of perfume adds the final touch to the perfection of a woman's ensemble. It is the finishing touch to beauty. For it has the magic power to attract, to arouse sensation, and to stimulate the imagination.

Nothing will make you unforgettable as will the perfume that means YOU. Why? Because when you wear it, you impress another sense besides those of hearing and sight. You impress the sense of smell. And according to a famous German professor, smell is the most important of the human senses. However, you should not employ your perfume just on special occasions. The fragrance of your choice should hover beguilingly

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Scars

Mrs. S. K.: For effective eradication, scars should be attended in their early stages. I would advise you to consult a skin specialist as soon as possible about the marks on your face.

Legs

Goldie: My method of reducing knees, calves and ankles is too long to print in this brief space. However, the process is fully outlined in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Chapped Lips

Louise M.: Apply a coating of cold cream, lanolin or camphor ice to your lips before retiring at night. Use a greasy lipstick during the daytime. Keep your lips well lubricated. This will remedy the dry, chapped condition.

LANG FALCONS PLAY GENERAL MOTORS OF DAYTON ON FRIDAY

Some of the best purely local basketball talent in Dayton will be on display when the Lang Chevrolet Falcons mingle with the General Motors Radio basketball club of Dayton at Central High School gymnasium Friday night.

The Xenia quintet got off on the wrong foot so to speak last week in its season's opener, losing to the bearded House of David club, but Marvin Putnam and Co. are hopeful of recording their first victory Friday evening.

This aforementioned victory may be difficult of attainment, however, due to the fact the General Motors Radio team is one of the classic semi-pro clubs in Dayton. The team's roster includes "Pine" Coleman, "Bud" Frank, "Charlie" Maxton, "Bill" Brady, "Speed" Moses, "Bill" Johnson, "Terry" Lyons and "Dick" Strahan. Harold Elder coaches the club.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—In contrast to yesterday's violent early dips and rallies in the rail and industrial stocks, the market was quiet and steady in the first hour today, with prices moving in a very narrow range. Wheat, corn and cotton were also steady at the outset, and Sterling exchange scored another slight recovery to 3.37.

MICKEY SURE LIKED HIS APPAREL

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Nothing in clothes is too good for Mickey Walker, the former middleweight boxing champion.

He not only owned thirty suits, each costing $125, thirteen topcoats at $150 each and forty sweaters, but he had a couple of top hats, it was testified Wednesday by his former wife, Margaret, in her suit for $25,000 for maintenance for their two children.

It was claimed Walker's ring earnings totalled more than $1,250,000.

Mrs. Walker testified further that in 1927 when Mickey went to London he told her he bought eleven suits of clothes for $125 each and that he paid for them.

"Then he went to Paris," testified Mrs. Walker, "and he said he never had time to go back to London and get the suits."

NO TIME TO WORRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Babe Ruth looked over his hunting guns today and forgot for the present plans for the renewal of his $80,000 a year contract with the New York Yankees.

The great man is going deer hunting. When he returns he said he will begin to worry about his new contract.

An announcement will be made later as to when the clothing and toys will be collected.

EARLY SKIN GRAFTING

BRISTOL, Conn.—The death of Miss Emma M. Neumann, 60, at the Bristol Hospital, recalled the first case of scalp skin grafting in this country. Thirty years ago Miss Neumann, then an employee of the Bristol Manufacturing Company, since gone out of existence, caught her hair in a machine, tearing her scalp from her head. Her life was at first despaired of but surgical skill was brought into play in skin grafting. The case attracted countrywide attention at the time.

MUSCULAR-RHEUMATIC PAINS

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant" because its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. It gets action and is not just a salve. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

LEWIS CARROLL'S "LOOKING GLASS" IS NOW READ IN CHINA

By JOHN GOETTE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
PEKING, Dec. 3.—Dr. Y. R. hao, professor in Tsing Hua College, the American Boxer Indemnity school, has completed his task of translating Lewis Carroll's immortal "Through the Looking Glass" into Chinese.

A few years ago he translated and published "Alice in Wonderland." These volumes are printed in China and comprise English, Chinese characters and what is known as "romanization" or a translation of the Chinese sound of words written in English letters.

Dr. Chao in telling International News Service of his fascinating labors, read the following passage as it will appear in "romanization." Hemdy Dermdy igulu shuai leang jongjiall:

Hemdy Dermdy igulu shuai leang ball.
Suoyeu Twangdih de maa gen suoyeu Huangkih de jen
Yee Tzay buneng bay Hemdy Dermdy pin cheng ge hulu-entwen.

"Ten years ago I translated 'Alice in Wonderland' and went on to translate 'Through the Looking Glass' but had a time with jabberwocky. It was impossible to write it in new characters, as nobody would be able to pronounce them, nor to invent make-believe word sounds, as there were no characters to write them in. I had to wait for the invention and adoption of a practical system of romanization before I could resume work."

"In 1926 the National Romanization was worked out and two years later officially recognized by the Ministry of Education. So I put jabberwocky into Chinese with all the etymologies intact. With this nut cracked, the rest of the book was comparatively easy, though the strict standard of never losing a point in translation held up the work many a time, and caused a good deal of floor pacing and cigarette burning."

The translator added that his work was done in strict "pat hua" or language of the ordinary people. So much was this true, that it could be told to a child word for word and still sound like talking. All verses retain the original rhythm and rhyming scheme, and in some cases even some approximation to the original rhymes themselves, as in the preceding quotation. In fact, it is easy for anyone without a knowledge of Chinese to tell which verse is being read, merely by listening to its swing.

BALLOON FAKES FLIGHT
HONOLULU—The toy rubber balloon which was released by Erma Jean Schrader at Greensburg, Pa., and found at Schofield Barracks, thirty miles from this city, by an Army sergeant, came to Hawaii aboard a vessel and not on air currents as originally supposed, aerological officers at the Pearl Harbor naval air station believe.

NEARLY FROZEN

NATIONAL GUARD IS PRAISED IN SPEECH
BEFORE XENIA CLUB

Advantages of a National Guard unit to a community were outlined by Capt. Harold L. Hays, commander of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, who spoke at the bi-monthly dinner meeting of the Downtown Country Club at the Trebein Tavern Wednesday night.

Reviewing the campaign now in progress to reorganize the local company and elevate the standard of the enlisted personnel, Commander Hays appealed to the club members to lend their support to the movement. He explained that it is of paramount importance that at least sixty new recruits be obtained within the next sixty days out of an eligible list of 100 young men considered desirable prospects.

The company commander warned that removal of the company from Xenia would mean permanent closing of the $50,000 armory, dedicated slightly more than a year ago. He also emphasized importance of the fact that $5,000 or $6,000 comes to this city annually through drill checks received by National Guardsmen and that this money is spent locally.

Capt. Hays recalled that when he assumed command of the Xenia company six months ago, thirty-four of the fifty-nine members of the unit at that time had been recruited from outside the city. "It is desirable to enlist young men who live in Xenia," he said.

P-T-A. MEETING

On Tuesday at Bath High the P-T-A. meeting was held and all day visit of the mothers was held. Each mother having a study period in her child's room. At the close of school all assembled in the cafeteria where a committee served luncheon to the mothers and teachers. There was a round table discussion, and exhibit of beautiful hand made articles by the room and a table liberally covered with lost articles which superintendent of schools Warner had on display so the mothers might identify some of the children's lost apparel, hats, books, pocketbooks, dinner pails, knives, etc. He said that last year hundreds of articles were found but that it was almost impossible to locate the owner. Miss Velsy, president, presiding gave the opening address. The children of the third grades, who won the paper drive contest and were treated to a day's outing, sent letters to the P-T-A. as a class, of thanks for this wonderful trip accorded them. Mr. Warner informed the mothers that he had explored the mothers to get up and ask questions about the school. Every one seemed to feel the superintendent and his excellent army of teachers are well qualified to meet any situation which might come before them. The afternoon brought to a close one of the most enjoyable yet interesting affairs that have been undertaken at Bath High. There were eighty-two present at the close of the meeting.

The seventh of December will be installation of officers at Yellow Springs Lodge Order of Masons. All members are requested to attend with their wives.

RECORDS OF FORMER MEMBERS OF LEGION ASKED BY CHAIRMAN

Records of some old members of the American Legion and some who have not been affiliated for some years with the organization are requested by Chairman Harry M. Smith of the membership campaign committee.

"With prospects brightest in years we expect to bring the membership of Jos. P. Foody Post No. 95 to the highest level since the end of the year within the next few months," Chairman Smith said.

But this can be done only with the active cooperation of every ex-serviceman not a member in the county. To carry on this work successfully it is necessary that an accurate record of the ex-servicemen now living in Greene County be made. To do this it is asked that all ex-servicemen, whether members of the Legion or not fill out the coupon printed below and mail it to Chairman Harry M. Smith, chairman of the campaign committee:

ONLY MAN ABLE TO "RUN" WILD GORGE HAS SECOND WRECK

LEWISTON, Idaho, Dec. 3.—Captain John Guleke, the only man who knows how to navigate the wild gorge of the "River of No Return," has had his second wreck in twenty-six years.

Salmon River, the rapids of which Captain Clark, of the Lewis and Clark Expedition over a 100 years ago said it was foolhardy to run, has borne Captain Guleke and his passengers fifty times in scows on its turbulent course without loss of a life.

But no passenger ever has made a return trip. Captain Guleke met his second disaster on Salmon River's mad waters recently with a party of tourists embarking from Salmon City. Again it was the giant Mallard Creek boulder which wrecked his scow. Guleke and his passengers escaped but all else was lost. The party was forced to walk twenty-five miles from the rapids to Elk City.

Through a quarter of a century Guleke has piloted his 30-foot rafts down the gorge. Six years ago he completed the trip to Lewiston, down the Snake River, but low water forced him to abandon the enterprise. During the World War, the adventurous riverman transported a cargo of copper ore from Salmon City to Lewiston. Every trip is made by daylight, with long sweeps guiding the plank "raft-like" scows. At night the scows are tied up. At the journey's end the material is sold. Not even Captain Guleke could bring a boat or raft up the "River of No Return."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

How One Woman Lost 47 Lbs. of Fat

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

Authoress Turns Waitress

Seeking first-hand information concerning New York's unemployment situation, young Joan Lowell (right), well-known authoress of "The Cradle of the Deep," obtained this job as waitress in a restaurant to pay for her meals. She was delighted to get it, even though her duties included scrubbing floors. Joan tramped the streets for days before she found the job. Miss Lowell reports that a "free" meal tastes delicious, even though it is mostly hash.

GOING AROUND IN WASHINGTON

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A quiet, little-known woman has just returned to her desk in Washington from a six-weeks visit to Soviet Russia. Her keen impressions of that agitated land haven't gotten into the papers but will carry great weight with one of the highest-placed officials in the capital.

The lady in question is Miss Cora Rubin, of Boise, Idaho, secretary to Senator William E. Borah, and secretary of his committee, the all important senator-foreign relations committee.

Miss Rubin has been Senator Borah's secretary since he came to the senate twenty-two years ago. Before that she was his confidential secretary in Boise, when he was making his reputation as a fighting prosecuting attorney in the famous Haywood-Mower dynamite cases.

Through her hands in all these years has gone Senator Borah's many public activities. She is one of the best informed persons on foreign affairs in the United States, and knows more about them than some of the members of the foreign relations committee.

Personally, she is one of the most witty and charming of people. In her work she is enormously competent, writing and—this is a secret—signing much of Senator Borah's correspondence. She is that perfection of secretaries, always effacing herself.

The foreign relations chairman entrusts the management of his personal office and the committee in her hands. He places great weight in her judgment.

In appearance she is very feminine. She is of French-Swiss extraction, her parents being pioneers in the great Northwest. She loves say trinkets, and relishes as good as anyone a good story on her senator.

Miss Rubin made her Russian trip as a member of a party of four, one of whom was Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democrat, of Illinois. The party was met in Moscow by an official of the Soviet foreign office who acted as guide on the six thousand mile tour.

The party visited Moscow, Leningrad, Nizhni Novgorod, at the head of the Volga, down the great river to Stalingrad, where they saw the new tractor plant, on to Rastov-on-the-Don, across the steppes stopping at Verblud and Gigant, two of the largest state farms, to the Donet coal mines, back of Tiflis, thence to the Crimea, to Odessa and the Denipetol, the great water power project being built under the direction of Colonel Cooper, the American engineer.

Vodka and caviar, Miss Rubin says, she could not go. As becomes the secretary of the leading dry in congress she also sorely lacked good, fresh water. Russians, it seems, like most foreigners, don't go in much for water as a drink. There was plenty of bottled water, Miss Rubin says, but she didn't care for it. Russian food in general was not to her taste, but every effort was made, she explains, to supply her and her traveling companions with what they wanted.

Outstanding in her impressions are four things, the confidence of the masses in the stability of the Soviet government, the lack of unemployment, the great care and attention lavished on children, and the absence of child workers.

The trip was Miss Rubin's first visit abroad. She is one up on her senator. Mr. Borah has never been out of the confines of the United States.

Date (Bridge) of the Wilmington Xenia Road, S. H. No. 248, State Route No. 53, in Xenia Township by constructing a concrete slab bridge (22 ft. span, 24 ft. roadway over Luck Branch) (Rt. No. GR-53-59).

Plans and specifications are on file in the office of the State Highway Director and the Resident District Deputy Director.

O. W. HERRICK, State Highway Director.

TEMPORARY BRIDGE BUILT FOR TRAFFIC ON JAMESTOWN PIKE

Preparatory to commencing construction of a new bridge spanning the north branch of Caesar's Creek on the Jamestown Pike, four miles west of Jamestown, as a part of Governor White's winter bridge building program for unemployment relief, work on a temporary bridge and detour road is being rushed.

The temporary structure is being built by W. C. Hiff, Cedarville, who has the contract for erecting the first two bridges to be constructed in Greene County under the emergency plan. Employees of the state highway maintenance department are preparing the detour road, which is a mile and one-half in length in the direction of Jasper Station.

The new bridge will be a concrete beam structure with two thirty-foot spans and a twenty-four foot roadway. The second bridge to be built soon will also span the same stream; a mile west of Jamestown. A quarter of a mile of macadam roadway approaching each bridge will be built. Both bridges will be two feet higher than the structures they replace. Contracts call for completion of the bridge projects by May 31.

Labor for the bridge building will be employed by the contractor from a list of jobless men compiled under the direction of the temporary Greene County Relief Committee, of which County Commissioner C. A. Jacobs is chairman.

CALF CALLED ON POLICE

WOODLAND, Cal.—When a fugitive stood right outside the city jail house and bawled good and loud, what could the gallant cops do but arrest him? This was done, and the police became nursemaid to a pure bred bull calf.

The police had been advised by City Attorney John Laugenour that the calf had strayed, and went out to look for it. While they searched out of the way pastures and grassy front lawns, the calf strolled down Main street until he came to the police hall.

TOWN GETS ANGRY

MAGNOLIA, Mass.—Because the City of Gloucester, of which this seaside resort is now a suburb, refuses to rebuild the town pier, which was destroyed in a storm, annexation of Magnolia by the town of Manchester is sought in a petition filed with Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook. The request to rebuild the pier was refused on the ground that it was private property. Magnolia residents became incensed over the refusal and promptly filed the petition seeking annexation.

SANTA CLAUS TOYLAND SYSTEM

Santa Claus Speaking:

In 1931, through the success of the reindeer importation of Dr. Jackson was assured, congress charged the interior department with the education of the Eskimo and the distribution of the reindeer and made an appropriation. Laplanders or Lapps as they are called, were brought to Alaska from Europe where for hundreds of years tame reindeer have furnished the Lapps with food, clothing and have been his means of transportation. These Lapps were to teach the Eskimo to raise and care for the reindeer. Five reindeer were distributed to missions and earned from the missions by apprenticeship. The Eskimo worked a year for six reindeer, a second year for eight more and at the end of the third year he received ten more. At the end of the fourth year he assumed entire charge of his herd, now numbering thirty-four reindeer and agreed to employ and distribute reindeer among his apprentices.

By 1917, 1,568 Eskimo families owned reindeer and now 70 per cent of the 600,000 or more reindeer in Alaska are owned by the Eskimos.

In a generation the reindeer industry advanced the Eskimo through the entire stage of civilization. Raised him from the primitive to the pastoral stage, from nomadic hunters to civilized men having in their reindeer assured support for themselves and an opportunity to acquire wealth.

This is the earliest and perhaps only governmental action provided by introducing a new industry, practical, vocational, training the adapted to community needs and resulting in training a primitive race into independence and responsible citizenship.

O. S. U. ALUMNI ARE INVITED TO DINNER

All graduates and former students of Ohio State University, along with their husbands or wives as the case may be, are invited to attend the annual "get-together" dinner meeting of the Ohio State University Association of Greene County at the Iron Lantern in this city Friday night at 7 o'clock.

It is desirable but not absolutely essential that reservations for the affair be made in advance, according to L. M. Hyman, president of the local group. The dinner-meeting has been arranged in connection with the nationwide celebration of "Ohio State Day" Friday.

HEARING FRIDAY

Hearing of the ouster suit filed in the Ohio County Court of Appeals by Erith Shoup against Edwin L. Stafford, who are disputing between themselves a seat on the Beaver Creek Twp. board of education, is assigned for 9 a. m. Friday at Dayton. Both Shoup and Stafford claim they are legally entitled to serve the remainder of the unexpired term of George Shank, resigned, as a board member.

GRANT FRANCHISE

County Commissioners, with the written consent of abutting land owners, have granted The Dayton Power and Light Co. a twenty-five year franchise for construction and maintenance of a pole line for transmission of electricity along the Yellow Springs Road between New Germany and the Zimmerman-Fairfield Road in Beaver Creek and Bath Twp.

Crawford Praises Pipe Organ; Comedy On Radio

By MILDRED MASON

THE pipe organ, long considered an instrument suited primarily for church purposes and purchased privately only by the wealthy, may some day be as popular as the piano and radio, according to Jesse Crawford, poet of the organ, who is heard regularly over an NBC network. He attributes the present popularity of the organ to its widespread use in radio and theaters.

"Although the pipe organ is still a cumbersome instrument the time will come when it will be made smaller and more practical for home use," Crawford says. "I hear from thousands of organ struck youngsters all over the country," he declares. "A score or more boys write me regularly from several states, telling me of their progress with the instrument and how they plan some day to reach Broadway fame. The instrument has a tremendous appeal for boys."

To Present Comedy, Oliver Goldsmith's well known comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," will be presented in an abridged form by the Radio Guild Friday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock over an NBC network. This program is not broadcast over WLW, Cincinnati, but may be heard through WGAR, Cleveland; WJR, Detroit; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville or WSB, Atlanta.

To Present Union Program. A rare occurrence in radio will take place when "The Bridge Builders," a comedy program that drew so many requests when it was presented October 21, will be presented again over NBC network Friday at 7 p. m. Page boys, hostesses, actors, announcers, porters, engineers and others are to take part in the broadcast which is presented in the form of a thirty-two verse poem, each verse read by a different person. The poem was written by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, well known music authority. Qualification for a part in the program is that each participant must have attempted to master contract bridge so that he must therefore "feel" his role. Stations to carry this unusual program are not announced.

Offer Well-Known Selections. Selections from "Prince of Pilsen" and "Rio Rita" will be heard during the Old Reliable Sextet broadcast over WLW Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Cherniavsky on WLW. Josef Cherniavsky, popular jazz maestro who is known to the radio audience as "the man who makes classical music popular and popular music classical" will be heard over WLW, Cincinnati, the latter part of this week while he and his orchestra are at the Greystone Ballroom in Cincinnati. The orchestra will be on the air Saturday night at midnight for a half

Film Sons And Daughters— Certainly Not Rotters

The separation of Helene Costello from her husband, Lowell Sherman and her determination to return to the screen brings up the interesting question of the second generation of movie players in Hollywood.

Ten years ago Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante was playing the piano in the Alamo Cafe in New York and a new singer was coming in cold. Her name was Jean Olsen. Jimmy had ever see the music of her number before but he played it through. As she walked away she told a friend: "That's the rottenest accompaniment I ever had." But Jimmy got his revenge. He married the girl. And what's more they're still Mr. and Mrs. Durante. Discarding his bathing suit for a leopard's skin, Johnny Weissmuller, swimming star, will play Edgar Rice Burroughs' fabulous hero, Tarzan. After taking tests of everybody but Bull Montana, Metro finally signed Johnny with an option on more to come. Thus he cashes in on his recent nose-straightening operation. Although he has appeared in several swimming pictures this will mark his debut as an actor. W. S. Van Dyke will direct and Leila Hyams will probably be the girl.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Carl Laemmle Jr., and Phillips Holmes are obvious examples of the second picture generation, all of them following in the footsteps of il-

Phillip Holmes
Seems pugnacious in this profile, doesn't he?

Intriguing dad, Patricia Rich, daughter of Irene Rich, recently graduated from Smith College and is already starting a career as an actress.

At the age of 17 Roscoe Ates' daughter has had considerable vaudeville experience under the name of Dorothy Darling. Walter Huston's boy, John, is a writer at Universal. Fred Kohler Jr., is an actor. Jean Herscholt's 16-year-old son, Allan, wants to be an actor but his father thinks he will be an engineer. Fred Niblo Jr. is a writer.

Among the executives, Jack Warner's son and namesake is expected to step into the Warner enterprises. He is only 15 and is now attending Beverly Hills High School. Executive Charles Rogers' 15-year-old son, John, is in the same school and also plans to enter film work.

Maurice Rapp, son of Harry, is a freshman at Stanford, but he already has had a story accepted for production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Eugene Zukor, son of Adolph, is an executive in the Paramount eastern offices. Jesse Lasky Jr. and B. P. Schulberg's son are employed at this company's West Coast studio. There doesn't seem to be a black sheep or a loafer in the whole second generation.

WILLIAMSON AGAIN FAIR BOARD MEMBER

R. D. Williamson, Republican, Greene County's representative in the state legislature and recognized as one of the agricultural leaders of the state, was reappointed Wednesday as a member of the state board of agriculture for a five-year term.

Reappointment of Mrs. W. J. Pontius, Canton, O., Democrat, for a similar term on the board, was also announced.

Rep. Williamson is a regular "dirt" farmer, having lived and worked on a farm all his life. For twelve years he served as a member of the Board of Greene County Commissioners.

STATE GROUPS WILL PLAY SANTA CLAUS TO HOME CHILDREN

Veterans organizations of the state of Ohio will make sure that the orphan residents of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Xenia this year will receive their customary visit from Santa Claus. It was announced today from state headquarters of the veterans' organizations.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Women's Relief Corps, Spanish American War Veterans and Auxiliary, and the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary all will combine to provide presents and entertainment for the children at the state home Christmas.

The Women's Relief Corps, the Spanish American War Veterans' Auxiliary and the American Legion Auxiliary of the state will group together to provide each of the children choice of a present, the cost depending upon the age of the child. Three dollars is the maximum to be allowed the older children, $2 for the intermediate and $1 each for the smaller tots, whose presents are not so expensive.

In addition to this, the Grand Army organization is contributing $50 and the American Legion and Spanish War Veteran organization will make up the difference in giving every boy choice of three books. Each cottage also is to be given a book or magazine subscription as they choose. The state Legion organization has appropriated $800 for this work, expected to represent 65 per cent of the total the Spanish War veterans giving the 35 per cent remainder, these figures being arrived at upon the basis of representation by the orphans of each war now resident in the home.

Congressional Brethren

For the first time in many years there are two brothers serving in the marble halls of Congress. They are William B. Bankhead (left) and John H. Bankhead, both of Jasper, Alabama, who help represent their State in Washington. They were photographed on the steps of the National Capitol, where William serves in the House and John in the Senate.
